Background I am a human rights lawyer and advocate based at a boutique firm in Brisbane, Anderson Fredericks Turners Lawyers & Advocates. I run a human rights advocacy and litigation practice with a wide array of public interest cases. In 2016, I graduated with Distinction (highest award) from a Master of Studies (MSt) in International Human Rights

Law (IHRL) at the University of Oxford. In 2010, I graduated from Southern Cross University with first class honours, a University Medal for outstanding academic achievement and various other awards.

In 2014, I was awarded the national Emerging Lawyer of the Year Award by the Australian Lawyer's Alliance and Amnesty International. In the same year, I was awarded two 2014 Southern Cross University Young Alumnus of the Year Awards. In 2013, I initiated and was part of the Baby Ferouz legal team and was awarded the 2015 Australian Lawyers Alliance (Qld) Civil Justice Award for that.

I am frequently published on and invited to speak at various Universities and public events on topical issues in human rights law. In December 2014, I established the national ALHR Human Rights Act subcommittee and over the past 24 months he has been a central part of spearheading the exciting successful campaign for a Queensland Human Rights Act. I am a founder of the international business and human rights consulting group "Synceritas" with a number of my Oxford colleagues. In addition to my ALHR responsibilities I also hold the following extracurricular appointments:

- Member of the Policy Advisory Council of the Grata Fund for Public Interest Litigation;
- Member of the Digital Rights Watch Advisory Council;
- Board Member of the Australian Earth Laws Alliance (AELA);
- Regional Correspondent (Asia-Pacific) of the Oxford University Human Rights Hub blog.

Involvement with ALHR

I have been an ALHR member since 2008 and actively involved since 2012 and I absolutely love it! I was first involved with ALHR as Qld Convenor in 2012 and during subsequent years I became actively and energetically involved in many aspects of ALHR's operations and functions including, but not limited to, the following:

- Submission writing (parliamentary and UN submissions) on a range of different human rights issues;
- Appearing before parliamentary and COAG committees re human rights issues;
- Organising and hosting educational events for the public and legal profession on various human rights issues;
- Actively invigorating the Qld Committee and engaging the ALHR membership from 2012-2015;
- Networking with other organisations to campaign and collaborate on projects of mutual interest, and to co-host educative events for the legal profession and the public;
- In 2013, I was appointed an Ordinary Member of the ALHR National Committee.
- In about December 2014, in alignment with my Masters dissertation topic, I established the ALHR national Human Rights Act subcommittee with a view to reinvigorating the national dialogue and campaign for a federal Human Rights Act. This led to a 2-year campaign for a QLD human rights act co-led by myself and ALHR and which has succeeded in the Qld Government promising to implement a Qld Human Rights Act based on the Victorian charter in the coming months;
- In November 2015, I self-funded a trip to attend Australia's second UPR in Geneva as a representative of ALHR and engaged media coverage and lobbying of politicians and delegates in the process.

- In April 2016, I nominated for and was appointed ALHR President and it has been an extremely exciting and highly productive, expansive year including, but not limited to the following:
 - Continuing and expanding ALHR's excellent work of drafting submissions on multiple and numerous state/Territory/federal parliamentary inquiries and to UN bodies (incl UN Special Procedures and Special Rapporteurs) – we are now at the point where we receive personal invitations from Federal and State Parliamentary Committees to provide submissions and from Federal Ministers to attend events such as the DFAT Human Rights NGO Roundtable in Canberra.
 - Assessing, enhancing and optimising ALHR's governance systems and fundraising activities and various different related projects, proposals and innovations all focused towards optimising ALHR's advocacy impacts and outputs.
 - Expanding the national committee to comprise of over 30 people, active committees in every state and territory and 7 national thematic subcommittees as follows:
 - Disability Rights Subcommittee
 - Refugee Rights Subcommittees
 - Indigenous Rights Subcommittee
 - Human Rights Act Subcommittee
 - Women & Girls' Rights Subcommittee
 - Freedoms Subcommittee
 - Business & Human Rights Subcommittee
 - Engaging ALHR's first ever professional media manager for a 6-month trial which has paid off in spades with amazing prime time media exposure (ABC RN AM/PM, Channel 10 The Project) SBS Radio) and consistent local, regional, national and international media exposure (radio, print, TV) thereby amplifying ALHR's advocacy impact on important human rights issues in Australia and abroad.
 - Co-organising, overseeing and hosting ALHR's inaugural national human rights conference and La Trobe University Law School's City Campus in Melbourne which was a raging success on multiple fronts.
 - Travelling to numerous governmental and NGO events around Queensland and Australia to represent ALHR including:
 - 2016 Australian Progress National Leadership Conference (2 days) at Old Parliament House Canberra;
 - 2016 La Trobe University Human Rights Advocacy Course guest lecture;
 - 2016 James Cook University Legal Studies Conference (Human Rights Keynote to 300 students from 30 high schools);
 - 2016 Guest Lecture Bond University Human Rights Course
 - 2016 Qld Parliament Panel on Decriminalising Abortion – panel speaker;
 - 2016 Chair of Politicians Panel at Qld Parliament for Decriminalising Abortion;
 - 2016 Michael Kirby Lecture Series Dinner Speech at Southern Cross University;
 - 2016 Hard to Believe Documentary Premiere Panel Speaker;

- 2016 Guest Speaker at Amnesty International Qld Chapter on Decriminalising Abortion;
 - 2017 Law Council of Australia Death Penalty Abolition Symposium (invite only) Melbourne;
 - 2017 DFAT Human Rights NGO Roundtable, National Museum Canberra;
 - 2017 Keynote Speaker at Griffith University & Qld Advocacy Incorporated “Walk the Talk” Disability Rights Conference at Brisbane Convention Centre (with Alistair McEwin, Ed Santow and Kevin Cocks AO).
- ALHR has now launched a campaign for a WA Human Rights Act and we are actively supporting the campaign for a Tasmanian Human Rights Act. We will also be initiating a campaign for a NSW human rights act and continuing to reinvigorate the campaign and dialogue around the urgent need for a federal human rights act.

I am extremely grateful for the opportunity of being able to work with such an excellent, inspiring, diligent and dedicated ALHR team with such a wonderful wealth of expertise and generous capacity for involvement in progressing, promoting, protecting and enhancing the indispensably important basic rights and fundamental freedoms of all Australians and future generations of Australians.

The Coming Year

I am highly energised and excited about the opportunity to continue my role as president of ALHR for another year. These are very exciting and concerning historic times and ALHR has a very important and robust part to play! I strongly believe that my in-depth knowledge of international human rights law and of the operations and governance structure of ALHR put me in good stead to more-than-adequately discharge my duties as ALHR president for the coming year.

I would be very grateful for the ALHR national committee and membership to elect me to the position of president for another year to continue ALHR’s exciting upwards trajectory of increasing ALHR’s multi-faceted impacts and exposure throughout Australia and overseas.

If re-elected to the position of ALHR president I will remain dedicated to advancing and implementing initiatives which deliver:

- The resources needed for ALHR to become a leading legal voice in human rights discourse in Australia;
- Progression of beneficial relationships with organisations and individuals such as that offered via the creation of our secretariat and Human Rights Advocacy subject at La Trobe University Law School
- Timely reactions to human rights issues as they arise;
- Growth in ALHR’s membership numbers;
- Value-added professional development for our membership;
- Progress toward ALHR’s medium and long-term strategic goals, such as a greater focus on more consistent communication with members of parliament and a greater media presence, greater involvement in United Nations complaints mechanisms and an increased presence at international human rights forums.
- Implementing a number of exciting innovative strategies currently in the works for repopularising human right within the national psyche and consciousness of Australia;

- Progressing and pursuing ALHR co-led campaigns for human rights acts in Western Australia, Tasmania, New South Wales and federally.
- Attention to the continued monitoring and strengthening of ALHR's governance.
